...also known as "PanArt". I am a mixed media artist, art journaler, jewelry creator, guitarist and coffee enthusiast. I currently live in Saint Joseph, Missouri with my husband, Frank.

I was initially shown a love for creating from my great grandmother... whenever I would go to visit, she always had a new project planned for us. Her small home had every art supply that one could ever need and together we always kept busy. Many years later, I acquired and completed a tattoo apprenticeship which gave me a glimpse into another world of creation - permanent canvas. Most recently, I left the corporate world in January of 2015 to pursue art full time. Since then, I have had many artist features locally and a opportunity to expand. Whether it be a commissioned painting, a mixed media piece, a page in my art journal... I am constantly creating. Art is the way that I express myself, capture moments and release. My aim is to never be content - to never stop learning, and never stop creating. My work can be found online through pan-the-artist.blogspot.com, facebook.com/artbypan, or instagram (@pantheartist).

I am a mystic, compulsive coffee drinker, mother to three amazing boys, and wife to one of the most beautiful souls to walk this Earth. I am also the artist/owner behind Soul Whisper Arts. Although, I have gotten my hands messy with various art mediums since childhood, I fell in love with mixed-media art in 2011 and I haven't looked back! I now paint because it helps me connect with and make sense of my inner world. In addition to that, you should probably know that I am a super firm believer that Love conquers all, that the heart of Life is in fact awesomely good, and that Art heals on some really deep levels.

In addition to creating art, I strive to foster community and teach women about the wisdom and beauty waiting to be witnessed within, through art classes and workshops. It is with paint brush in hand that I believe we can discover some of the bravest parts of ourselves.

I've always had a constant need to create things, things from old things, new things, things from other things. As long as I can remember that's been my passion. Along with exploring materials is this desire to learn and grow and keep making pretty things along the way.

I am an avid Artist and Scrapbooker always on the lookout for pretty ribbons, buttons, patterned papers and fabrics to layer and make fun whimsical collage art and cards. Currently and always I'm on the pursuit to infuse happiness and optimism into the world through my creations. Always light...Always love is my Mantra!

I have always been a lover of all things creative, from writing to art to cooking to music. Before shifting my focus to paper crafting and mixed media, I trained in music ministry and studied as a classically trained soprano. I love pushing myself and trying to think outside the box, particularly in trying to make art fun, but still affordable.

I currently design for The Crafter's Workshop and I have lived the last 10 years in NW Arkansas with my husband of 13 years and my 3 amazing kiddos. Each day I try to live my life by the words of Picasso: Inspiration does exist, but it must find you working.

...from Germany. I am the mum of two lovely kids and a full time crafter and mixed media artist. I started painting with acrylics when I was about 15 years old. My creativity was halted while I persued industrial engineering studies. Later I started with photography and some graphic design. After my daughter was born, I became a scrapbooker and my passion started growing. Now I love creating mini albums, cards, layouts and different mixed media pieces. I am addicted to colors and stamps! My style is most of the time very colorful. I try to capture special feelings in my art work. Prior I am inspired by nature and music.

I'm a multi-media artist working from a small bedroom studio in Atlanta, Georgia. I eat, sleep, and dream art.

My favorite art supplies are sketchbooks, acrylic paints, and shipping tags. Over the past year I've grown to love art journaling. It's a place to experiment, grow, and learn.

I enjoy taking photos and hiking in my spare time. Most of my inspiration comes from nature. Getting outside and seeing how the world moves around me opens my mind to so many ideas. Sharing my artwork with others always feels great because I used to be too shy to do so. I try to create something everyday and I know that I am blessed to be an artist!

CIAO! I am a mixed media artist that lives in a very small town near Bologna, in sunny Italy. I started my journey in the craft world as card-maker , but I was not really satisfied, it is in fact when I stumbled upon the mixed media world that I found my happy place.

I create daily, it is my perfect way to end the day – I create Art Journals, Altered Art, Tags...but my creative jumpstart arte almost always ATCs.

I had the pleasure to be in great design team, such as Faber-Castell Design Memory Craft, Jamie Dougherty Design, Ann Butler, CAS-ual Fridays, Craft Stamper's Make it Take it, Indigoblue and more. I also have been featured in Kasia Kryzminska's blog and Paper Crafter's Library blog. I love teaching classes and that is what I try to do every now and then. I am a mixed media and art journal artist and instructor. I am the creator of the Gratitude Junk Journal Workshop.

I help women all over the world to embrace the artist within through lessons infused with happiness, confidence and creativity, which empowers them to express and experience their art more freely.

It is my goal to touch the hearts and minds of one million women in such an important and significant way. Join the journey. #onemillionhearts

Currently, I host a 3x weekly, LIVE artsy scope, as well as online workshops and on-site classes. I spend time creating daily and I encourage others to embrace their art daily, as well.

I am hosting the AMAZING Embrace Your Art Crop and Cruise coming Fall 2015.
